

Arvados - Feature #10309

[Workbench] add a configuration flag to hide compute nodes

10/20/2016 08:17 AM - Nico César

| | | | |
|---|------------------------|------------------------|------------|
| Status: | New | Start date: | 10/20/2016 |
| Priority: | Normal | Due date: | |
| Assigned To: | | % Done: | 0% |
| Category: | | Estimated time: | 0.00 hour |
| Target version: | Arvados Future Sprints | | |
| Description | | | |
| On-Prem installation with a shared HPC cluster (i.e. external slurm) could show false information about the nodes that run. For example: 0 busy nodes and 0 idle nodes. It will be better in those cases to have a flag to hide that nodes status box from the UI. | | | |

History

#1 - 10/26/2016 08:35 PM - Tom Clegg

- Subject changed from [Workbench] add a configuration flag to hide comute nodes to [Workbench] add a configuration flag to hide compute nodes

#2 - 08/29/2017 01:56 PM - Tom Morris

- Target version set to Arvados Future Sprints