

Arvados - Bug #15538

Update component .service files

08/12/2019 05:21 PM - Eric Biagiotti

Status: Resolved	Start date: 11/12/2019
Priority: Normal	Due date:
Assigned To: Eric Biagiotti	% Done: 100%
Category:	Estimated time: 0.00 hour
Target version: 2019-11-20 Sprint
Description Component .service files (e.g. arvados-ws.service) have AssertPathExists, pointing to legacy config files. Update these to point to the cluster config, since we recommend deleting legacy config files.

Just searched the repo for "AssertPathExists" and I get the following:

- arvados-controller.service, arvados-dispatch-cloud.service, and arvados-health.service all assert that the new cluster config exists at /etc/arvados/config.yml. This is correct since these only work with the cluster config.
- arvados-node-manager.service - Checks for /etc/arvados-node-manager/config.ini. This is also correct since node-manager is going away and isn't in the cluster config.

Subsequently, no changes are needed.

Nit: you could remove the commented AssertPathExists on services/dockercleaner/arvados-docker-cleaner.service.

Other than that, it seems that this issue was gradually fixed from other related stories, thanks!
