Description

It looks like something is wrong with the way we calculate version numbers for workbench dev packages.

Merge commit 522d525a4 included changes in apps/workbench, so it should have made a new package.

$ git l

Build 1128 made a package for revision b30dca66a, but build 1129 chose not to make a package for 522d525a4:

Revision 278e5355 - 11/28/2019 06:04 PM - Tom Clegg

Fix rails package versions for dev builds.

[$goverion > $railsversion] doesn't compare versions, it just creates an empty file called $railsversion and returns success. As a result, the arvados-api-server and arvados-workbench package numbers (and the rebuild-or-reuse decisions) were based only on the last change to cmd/arvados-server, disregarding more recent changes in the respective Rails projects.
